Notes on Fireweed Mission and Methods

Greetings,

I will be starting to add notes to the weekly newsletter to provide you with more information about Fireweed's Mission and Methods. Why? Many folks have told me that they love Fireweed, but can't really explain or articulate what it is that works so well, why it works so well. The school was founded on a mission to address the whole child through six learner outcomes: Reasoning Ability, Self-Reliance, Creativity, Cooperation, Personal Growth and Academic Achievement. The founders outlined goals and objectives and some of the preferred methods of reaching them. It wasn't until a year later that Theme Immersion was adopted as a delivery model and Constructivist principles as the foundation for that model. Over the next few weeks I will be sharing my perspective on each of these five principles.

Cheers! Kiki

5 Principles of Constructivist Classrooms:

1. Posing problems of emerging relevance
2. Structuring learning around primary concepts
3. Seeking and valuing students' points of view
4. Adapting curriculum to address students suppositions
5. Assessing student learning in context of teaching
