HAPPENINGS

NEW THEME...CULTURE

To Cultivate...

To Grow...

We began our study of culture today with a brief video introduction of cultures throughout the world. I included dance, clothing, food, music and the fact that though they vary, in essence we are all the same. We heard a story called, Grandfather Gandhi. In this beautiful story, written by Arun Gandhi and Bethany Hegedus, gives a portrait of an extraordinary man who taught the world to live in light. Gandhi taught his grandson, Arun, that anger can strike like lightning and be destructive. "Or it can be channeled and transformed, it can shed light like a lamp." ... expressing how we might turn the darkness into light.

This week Jon will be digging into soil cultures and starting seedlings for the LFW gardens. Kim will be exploring the culture of scientists and diving into chromatography experiments to give the kids an active experience of being a member of a scientific culture. Miss Deb's group will be looking at the African American Culture and prominent woman throughout history and creating friendship quilts.

Well, Shake Your Shamrocks!

Miss Deb's Class were leapin' leprechauns when they entered their room on Tuesday morning only to find that it had been destroyed by those mischievous Little People. Why, there were even tiny little green footprints everywhere! Our Mighty Dragon Slayers, after recovering from the shock, went right to work and had it cleaned-up in no time. Our centers were Spudtacular as we weighed potatoes, measured in shamrocks, designed Leprechaun houses and magically had our painted hats transformed to the size of...a Leprechaun!

Green was Keen and we loved eating green potatoes and green shakes. What a fun week we had!
